BA in Spanish Teaching (555422) 2022-2023 Program Requirements (59 - 80 Credit Hours)

Licensure: This program meets the educational requirements designed to lead to an occupationally required professional license or certificate in the state of Utah. Students pursuing occupations requiring a license or certificate in a state other than Utah should contact the appropriate BYU academic advisement center as well as the licensing agency in the state where they intend to work to seek information and guidance regarding licensure and certification requirements.

For students accepted into the major after December 16, 2019, grades below C in any required coursework in a teaching major or teaching minor will not be accepted. Teacher candidates must maintain a cumulative GPA of 2.7 or higher once admitted into the program and to qualify for student teaching. For additional details on admission and retention requirements for teaching majors and teaching minors, see Educator Preparation Program Requirements in the Undergraduate Catalog.

A teaching minor in another subject is strongly recommended. Teaching opportunities in public schools may be significantly reduced without a second teaching subject that a teaching minor provides.

THE MAJOR:
The BA in Spanish Teaching at Brigham Young University is designed to prepare students for professional licensure to teach Spanish in secondary schools. The program aims to develop a broad foundation in the Spanish language and Hispanic literatures and cultures, as well as the specific knowledge and skills necessary to teach Spanish to adolescents in public school settings. The Spanish Teaching BA program is one of nearly 30 programs in BYU's Educator Preparation Program. As such, it also encompasses the general goals for all teaching majors at BYU (see http://education.byu.edu/cites/new_statement.html). The Spanish Teaching major is a limited enrollment program, which means that students must apply for admission to the program. Before applying, students must complete FLANG 276 (Exploration of Language Teaching), offered on the first block during Fall and Winter semesters. Immediately upon completion of 276, students may apply to the Spanish Teaching major. Application deadlines are Oct. 31 and Feb. 28. Application is done through the MyLink database (https://mylink.byu.edu/home/).

A teaching minor in another field is not required but strongly encouraged. For a list of teaching majors and minors, see http://education.byu.edu/ess/majors_and_minors.html.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES:
The Spanish Teaching Major Program prepares students with the professional knowledge and experience required to become licensed middle and high school Spanish teachers of adolescents in public, private, and charter schools. The program aims to develop a broad foundation in both the Spanish language and Hispanic literatures and cultures. It also provides learning experiences that capacitate graduates to develop cutting-edge curriculum, to plan innovative lessons and assessments, and to support diverse learners through interactive instructional strategies and technologies. Program graduates become professionally engaged teacher-leaders who actively contribute to the broader field of world language education as classroom teachers, curriculum developers, instructional leaders, language program coordinators, and online course instructors. Many of our program graduates also combine the professional skills they gain in this program with advanced degrees that qualify them to work as administrators, curriculum or technology specialists, and professional consultants in fields such as business, government, technology, and translation and localization.

In order to apply to the major, students must first declare a Spanish Teaching pre-major and complete FLANG 276 (Exploration of Language Teaching), offered on the first block during Fall and Winter semesters. Immediately upon completion of 276, students may apply to the Spanish Teaching major. Application deadlines are Oct. 31 and Feb. 28. Application is done through the Educator database (http://educator.byu.edu). A teaching minor in another field is not required but strongly encouraged. For a list of teaching majors and minors, see https://education.byu.edu/advisement/majors_and_minors).
